PURPOSE: To obtain a bouquet packaging bag in which cut flowers can be easily wrapped with its lower end open and which is particularly suited for automatic packaging.

CONSTITUTION: Two sheets of plastic film 2 are placed together with their heat-sealable surfaces inside, each side of these films is heat sealed to form a joined part 3 and heat-sealed parts 5 are formed at a plurality of places of the lower part of the films with gaps left therebetween. A bouquet with an open bottom can be easily made by a mere placing and binding of cut flowers. As an alternative, the bottom part of this bag is closed and perforation-like slits are provided widthwise of the bag at its lower part. In this case, after placing and binding of the cut flowers, the lower part of the bag is torn off along the slits to form a bouquet with an open bottom.
